CLINIC SPEAKERS

RUSS ROSE

Penn State University Head Coach

To say that Coach Rose had a good year in 2007 is a massive understatement. His squad captured the 2007 National Championship – the second in his tenure at Penn State. In addition, he was selected as the 2007 AVCA Division I National Coach of the Year and also was inducted into the AVCA Hall of Fame. Earlier in the season, Rose became only the third coach in Division I to pass the 900-career-win plateau and owns an NCAA-best career winning percentage of .853. Penn State is one of only two schools to make the last 27 NCAA tournaments. His teams have won 25 conference championships -- 11 Big Ten and eight Atlantic 10 -- including the last five Big Ten crowns. Additionally, Rose was named the AVCA National Coach of the Year in 1997 and 1999 and was recognized as one of the "All-Time Great Volleyball Coaches" in 2005.
